Olive Branches

The State department knows it's handling a ticklish situation when it bars certain foreign delegates to a meeting advertised as a "peace conference"—the cultural and scientific conference for world peace. This high-sounding project is sponsored by the National Council of the Arts, Sciences and Professions. And if more names are needed for background, the chairman of this organization is Dr. Harlow Shapley, Harvard astronomer. Dr. Shapley is certain to be noticed in any background.

Dr. Shapley, for various reasons, isn't the kind of person whose ideas about "peace conferences" are likely to be swallowed whole by the State department. For instance, there was an outfit organized in Breslau last summer called the International Committee in Defense of Peace. Its backer was something else called the world congress of intellectuals. Four Americans were named to a 21-member committee, with headquarters in Paris. Shapley was one. The others were Howard Fast, Jo Davidson and Albert Kahn. Fast, a few months before, had confirmed some strong suspicions by being one of the signers of a letter praising artistic freedom in Russia and lambasting what he described as lack of freedom in the United States.

These things get complicated when one tries to follow them. But the general idea is that the State department is disenchanted about people who wave olive branches as though they might be sickles. Including Doc Shapley.

Spot Remover

The phrase "home rule" used in connection with the idea that states should have the final say-so on rent control isn't accurate.

A better name for this congressional device to pass the buck for a decision that has proved deeply embarrassing is "spot remover." Congress is on the spot over further extension of wartime rent controls. It wants to be removed from the spot. What could be easier than to let states decide when rent controls should be discontinued?

"Home rule" has positive meaning in government. It means that local authority does not yield to higher authority on matters which should be decided at the local level. It does not mean that local authority should handle the rebound from decisions previously made at a higher level of public authority. That is spot-removing—for the benefit of politicians who want to be removed from spots.

Get Braced, Ladies

Married women holding jobs might as well get braced now for the forthcoming agitation to throw them out of their places of employment. It always happens when jobs quit looking for people and people look for jobs.

The reason is that men who aren't having any luck finding jobs see women holding down jobs. Some of the women are married. The men conclude that the married woman is working for fun. From that it is only one more step to conclude that all married women should be thrown out of employment, thereby giving jobs to more deserving Americans; i. e., males looking for jobs.

The controversy goes 'round and 'round. It raged and rumbled through the Thirties and was still good for an argument in the early Forties. The war quieted it; jobs looked for people. But people are looking for jobs again now, and the first group to get elbowed will be married women. They will point out once more that most of them work from necessity, not for fun; that even if they work for fun, this is a free country; that they mostly do work which women can do better than men, or which men don't want to do. They'll try to be rational about their situation, though they will be under irrational attack.

Flashback

There was an election coming . . . both major parties and the minor parties were angling for potential votes . . . men in smoky rooms reeked their brains for new ways to phrase old promises . . . the nights in convention cities were punctuated with the sound of political platforms being knocked together.

In Philadelphia, both major parties committed themselves in varying degrees of equivocation to the right of all citizens to hold jobs without regard to race, religion, or color of origin. The heat was on for fair employment practices everywhere in the United States after 1948. It was to be reflected in state platforms. Both parties, in varying degrees of equivocation, "came out flat-footed" for a fair employment practices law in Ohio.

It shouldn't astonish anyone that the Ohio house of representatives now has passed a fair employment practices bill by a vote of 10 to 61. When both political parties finally agree on identical or nearly identical planks in their platforms, it signifies they are ready to take the subject matter of the plank out of controversy. Or are legislators supposed to ignore party platforms, the same as everybody else?

No Representation

A remarkable situation is described in a letter urging businessmen to encourage congressmen to support the Taft-Hartley act. One congressman, the letter points out, says he was discouraged because he received only a single letter probing him when he voted against President Truman's veto of the original bill. But he received many letters criticizing him. So . . .

The inference is that this congressman—and others—are no longer capable of making up their own minds on public matters. They vote according to the pressure put on them. The way to get legislative results is to bombard a congressman with mail. Better yet, organize a lobby to badger him day in and day out. It's no longer a matter of right and wrong, but a matter of making a bigger stir than the opposition. The side that "wins" that contest with the biggest lobby wins.

This is a far departure from the quaint idea of the founding fathers, who believed that in a representative government the legislators elected by the people should be competent to make up their own minds. The founding fathers never conceived of congressmen who make up their minds by a system of decibel ratings and pieces of mail received pro and con. If they had conceived of this, they might have turned the country back to the Indians then and there because it wasn't what they had in mind when they risked their lives for freedom.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

BY WALTER KIERNAN

The Voice of America is now putting out the President's speeches in Persian and that's the way congress appears to be getting them.

But Harry just keeps smiling and saying "fine body of men—fine body of men."

And he may be right that there is no "basic disagreement" between himself and congress . . . it may just be general.

Anyway right now we're busy with the cultural and scientific congress in New York . . . it's a new pyramid club without doughnuts.

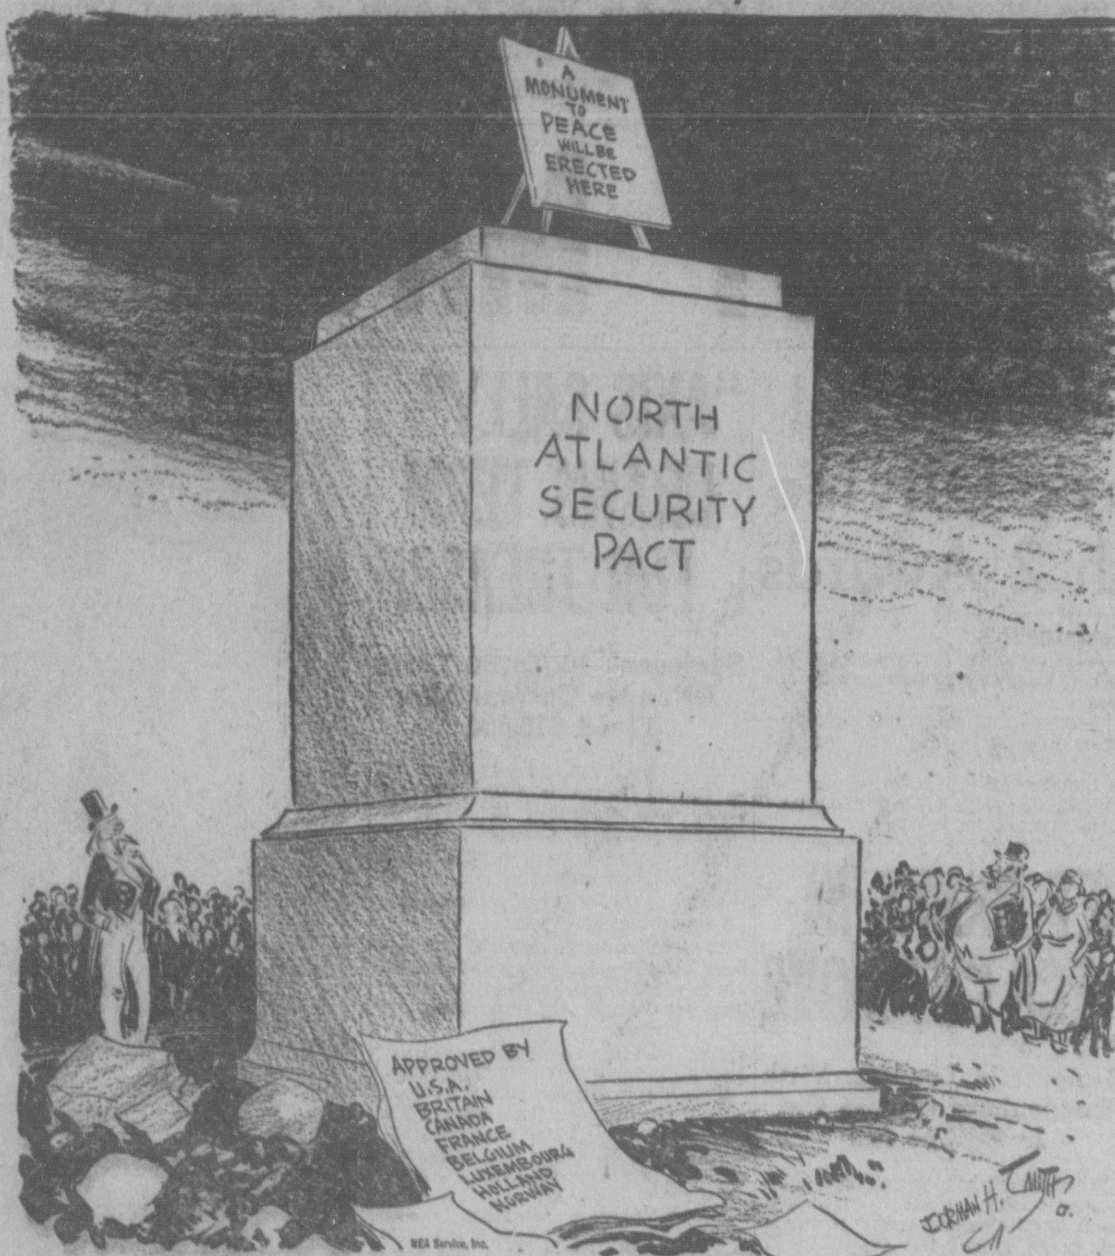

Each member is supposed to bring two friends or two allies.

The State department refused to let in some delegates for fear of espionage but the imports couldn't do any more harm than our native miscontents.

The Pedestal Is Ready

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, March 25—(AP).

—The Atlantic pact has two key sections. This story explains them, for you'll hear about them from congress.

This country—with Canada, Britain, France, Norway, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands—wrote the pact as a defense against Russia.

Their reason: If they're ready for attack, they may not be attacked at all; but if attacked, they'll be ready.

But—unless the senate approves, we can't take part in the pact at all. It's expected to, probably in a few weeks.

BEFORE THE senate says "all right," the two key sections mentioned above will draw the heaviest examination and argument.

They are: How to prepare against an attack and what to do if the attack comes. Take them one at a time.

How to prepare against attack—There are 14 articles in the 1,040-word pact, and Article 3, one of the keys, says:

"In order more effectively to achieve the objectives of this treaty, the parties, separately and jointly, by means of continuous and effective self-help and mutual aid, will maintain and develop their individual and collective capacity to resist armed attack."

It means they agree to help themselves and one another prepare. Since we're best able to help, most of the helping depends on us.

To that, President Truman is expected to ask congress for $1,000,000,000 more. He may get some strong opposition on the grounds that we're spending too much money already.

Yet, in case of Russian attack, the European countries would be our first line of defense. They'd have to stand the brunt till we swung into action. That would be priceless help to us.

Unless we give plenty of help, our

Market For Librarians Reported Wide Open

NORMAN, Okla.—The University of Oklahoma is looking for bait that will lure bookworms into libraries on a permanent basis.

Prof. J. L. Rader, director of the University of Oklahoma school of library science, says there were 18,500 unfilled librarian positions in the United States last year.

Rader says the university receives daily requests for librarians from petroleum companies, government agencies, other colleges, the Library of Congress, United Nations and even reformatories.

Only about five per cent of the demand can be filled at present, Rader says.

Troubled With Insomnia? See Doctor

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

People who find difficulty in sleeping may be suffering from some physical condition producing pain which would naturally interfere with sleep. The large majority, however, are healthy and lose sleep because of some emotional or social difficulty.

Disturbed sleep may indicate difficulty in falling asleep, interruption of sleep, early waking, or a combination of these things.

Nervous and Tense

Persons who find trouble falling asleep are usually nervous, tense, and overactive. They take their problems too seriously. No sooner do they retire than they begin to fidget and squirm, and begin to think and worry about their problems. After the condition has been present for some time, their chief worry is their inability to fall asleep. These who wake up several times during the night are usually middle-aged. They frequently fall asleep soon after retiring, but they awaken during the night with such symptoms as muscle cramps, abdominal pain, or a feeling of fullness in the chest. These persons, too, spend hours worrying about why they cannot sleep.

Elderly Persons

Those who wake up early usually are elderly persons who tire easily and, because of this fatigue, they often sleep during the day and go to bed early at night. Naturally they will then awaken early in the morning.

If you are troubled with sleeplessness, consult your physician. He will be able to determine if there is any physical reason for the sleep disturbance and then can advise proper treatment.

If you are found to be in good health, there are a number of things which may be helpful in overcoming the sleep difficulty. Perhaps one of the most important is to make every possible effort to eliminate worry, and particularly not to take worries to bed.

Eating Before Bedtime

Some persons may find that eating before they go to bed is helpful in producing sleep, but this depends upon whether or not hunger is present. If the person is not hungry, there is no value in eating. Excessive fluids just before going to bed should be avoided, particularly in older people with prostate gland difficulties.

If smoking, coffee, and alcoholic beverages interfere with sleep, they should be avoided; if they do not interfere, their use in moderation will cause no such difficulty.

Another important factor in sleep is relaxation. It is impossible to fall asleep when the muscles are tense. Some persons find that reading in bed brings about the necessary relaxation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
T. C.: What causes too much saliva in the mouth?
Answer: The normal amount of saliva varies in different individuals. A great increase occurs occasionally in nervous diseases; in acute infections; infections of the mouth, and, especially, when tobacco and certain drugs, such as mercury or iodine compounds, are used.

Some authorities believe that the constant swallowing of saliva may become a habit in nervous people. In such persons, atropin helps to control the secretion. Bromides, too, may be helpful, and a simple solution, such as quinine, used as a mouth wash, gives temporary relief.

'RADIUM LIMITED' ROLLS WITH CLINIC'S HOT CARGO

CLEVELAND—(NEA) — Radium Limited, the only special train of its type in the world, has begun handling "hot cargo" in the radiation laboratory at Cleveland Clinic.

Dr. Otto Glasser, famed Clinic medical physicist, installed the toy train to protect technicians handling radium compounds needed for treatment of cancer patients and for research work.

The model equipment operating over a 21-foot right of way is identical to that sold for home railroads throughout the nation.

It has been trimmed down, however, to only the electric locomotive and a flat car for its special job. The flat car carries a lead-lined container.

The "hot cargo" is radon, a radioactive gas produced by the basic supply of radium in the Clinic laboratory.

The original radium, which will still retain half of its present power at the end of 1600 years, is not used directly in medical treatment.

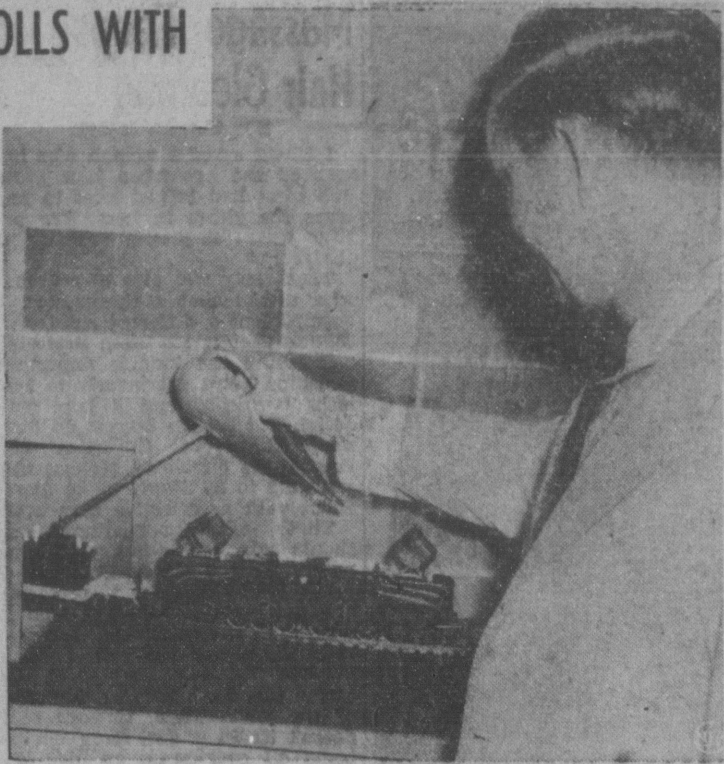

Physicists draw off the activated radon gas produced by tubes, place these tubes in brass or gold containers, and then measure the strength of the radiation thrown off.

Radon radiation consists chiefly of gamma rays, similar to X-rays but with greater penetrating power. When used properly these gamma rays can destroy diseased cancer tissue without injuring normal tissue.

Unlike radium, radon gas loses half of its power in less than four days. The radon "seeds" are not very active when first sealed in gas, but hit their peak strength four hours later.

That is why Dr. Glasser introduced the miniature train, operated by remote control, to transfer the radon gas to the measuring unit when gamma rays reach their peak.

Up until now Bernard Tautkins, Clinic technician, and three associates have been placing the radon gas in thick lead-lined containers, and carrying them by hand.

Bernard Tautkins, Cleveland Clinic technician, prepares to measure radiation strength of the radon gas in the capsule that carries the "hot cargo" of the Clinic's tiny railroad.

The miniature train carrying its own lead-lined container will further eliminate radiation danger for the technicians.

Tautkins said he and his fellow workers would continue to work on their present schedule, only one week out of four in close contact with any of the radiation. This is to protect them from an exposure beyond the body's ability to tolerate.

Dr. Glasser said the model train installation was only in its pioneering stage.

Additional protection for workers handling all types of radioactive elements may be provided later, he predicted, through automatic loading and unloading devices for the flat car, and by a pneumatic tube to deliver the radon "seeds" to the hospital surgery.

Want Alaskan Homes

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Lowell Puckett, regional administrator for the Bureau of land management, said numerous business sites are available along the portion of the Alcan Highway lying within Alaska.

Puckett warned that those who intend to homestead in the Territory should act now, because undesirable farm land near settled communities is going fast.

During the past months, district land offices in Alaska have been busy recording applications for homestead acreage. Puckett said practically all good farming land along public roads has been homesteaded but there still is unclaimed farm land in interior areas that is available by airplane or river boat.

Massage Keeps Hair Gleaming

BY ALICIA HART

I ONCE asked a woman who had reached the age when hair grows dull what had helped most to preserve the gleam in hers. The answer was: "Finger-tip massage of the scalp."

That reply will give any woman who thinks that scalp-massage is unimportant a different slant on a routine that is too often neglected.

Brushing the hair is important. Brushing helps enormously to keep locks tumbled and a lazy scalp active. But bristles cannot do for a scalp what your fingertips can. Bristles are unable to, because they can't dig in as deeply or be moved about with as effective maneuvers. That's why your finger tips should take over when your hand puts down the brush. The trick is to use your finger tips to press into and manipulate the scalp, inch by inch, until the entire area has been manually moved. Start at the front hairline and don't stop until your finger tips have reached the nape of the neck. Then, if your scalp doesn't tingle or feel more flexible, begin all over again and give it a second workout.

COLUMBIANA GOAL IN DRIVE NEARED

COLUMBIANA, March 25—H. A. Tyndall, chairman of the Red Cross drive for Columbiana and vicinity, reported Thursday morning that the goal of $1,500 appears to be in sight without the necessity of a house-to-house canvass.

Contributions now total about $1,100, with several industries and business concerns yet to report. Either of the banks will receive contributions.

Mrs. Hester Laurain of Salem, district deputy, conducted the annual inspection of Sunset temple, Pythian Sisters, Wednesday evening. Two new members, Mrs. Marie Allen and Mrs. Leona Athey, were initiated. There were several guests from Salem. Lunch was served.

Summer recreation for girls as well as boys at Firestone park is being considered by Principal D. W. Bailey of Columbiana High school and President Marion Poulton of the park board. A meeting of Mr. Bailey and Mr. Poulton with the girls will be held as soon as it can be arranged to learn the wishes of the girls. The program for the boys will be about the same as last year. The Senior Y-Teen club of the High school recently heard Miss Billie Findlay of Poland talk on positions available for girls in the airline service. Miss Findlay's talk concerned mainly qualifications, training, pay and the nature of the work. The age limits are 21 to 35.

No Meter So No Nickel. Girl Convinces Police

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C.—Grinning police let a pretty girl off on a clear traffic violation, agreeing that she should have been excused. The girl was brought into court on a ticket for overtime parking. The complaint said her car was found parked in a metered space, but that no nickel was dropped in the meter.

"But there wasn't any meter there when I parked," the defendant stammered.

Officers investigated and found that the meter had been installed just after she left her car in the space.

Lay Off 1,000

WILLOUGHBY, March 25—Some 100 of 1,000 employees of the Ohio Rubber Co. were laid off yesterday because of "general business conditions," the company announced.

AT TOP—Mellinger Lumber Co. employees cut timber from their own woodlot and saw it to desired lengths for transportation to mill in Leetonia where (center photo) skilled workmen turn out finished lumber with modern equipment, and at bottom, a finished product of the Leetonia industry, one of its modern "covered wagons."

Mellinger Lumber Co. Of Leetonia Converts Trees Into Truck Bodies

BY WARREN GERBER
LEETONIA, March 25—From a Leetonia shop have come hundreds of modern covered wagons, carrying goods and people over the Old Northwest territory much like their predecessors did more than 100 years ago.

Since 1870 the small shop of the Mellinger Lumber Co. has provided quality lumber products for thousands of uses and, in later years, truck bodies for companies in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Operations have been made more exact and faster with the addition of a new planer-matcher, recently installed. It converts rough lumber into a finished piece by planing up to four sides in one pass through the machine.

Many steps and skilled craftsmen are involved before the gleaming bodies of panel, stake, cattle rack, produce or bottle beverage trucks are finally stamped with the Mellinger label.

Some body exteriors are also covered with aluminum or steel.

Cut Own Wood
Wood used for the 20th century carriers is almost all oak and poplar and much of it comes from the stand owned by the company in Adams county.

After it is cut and sawed by the logging crew it is shipped by truck or rail to the Leetonia plant. In the yard it is put in a kiln for three to 35 days. Then, in the shop, it is put through the rip saw, new planer-matcher, cutoff saw and fabricated with steel to be built to the customers' specifications. Ross Mellinger, Sr., who heads the company, said that they usually build the body before the truck chassis arrives in Leetonia.

There is 12,000 feet of floor area in the plant, plus sheds which hold up to 40 cars of lumber. The company carries a full line of lumber products.

During the first weeks of the late war the company was commissioned to convert the giant automobile carrier frames into buses which ultimately carried groups of war workers from metropolitan areas to plants and arsenals situated in distant or rural localities. The pilot models were made in Leetonia and the material for 150 busses was processed there.

The company met the depression of the last decade by switching to bins and skids for industrial use. The fourth generation in the Mellinger family, Ross, Jr., is now a member of the organization. It was Henry Mellinger who first operated the lumber yard almost 80 years ago, using local lumber in a mill just a few hundred yards from the present shop location.

Carved Pebble Find Is 20,000 Years Old

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—A potato-sized stone found in eastern France has proved to be one of the finest, ancient engraved "pebbles" ever discovered, according to a Harvard archaeologist.

Dr. Hallam L. Movius, Jr., curator of paleolithic archaeology at Harvard's Peabody Museum, said the "pebble" is the work of a prehistoric people who lived 20,000 to 25,000 years ago. It was discovered during excavations at the LaColombe rock-shelter in eastern France.

Likenesses of prehistoric animals have been carved on the rock, which is believed to have had some religious significance.

URGE SET-UP FOR OVERSEAS AID PROGRAM

Hoover Commission Wants Administration Formed To Handle Projects

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON, March 25—(AP)—The Hoover commission today asked congress to consider creating a new "Administration of Overseas Affairs" to manage territories, occupied areas and the Marshall plan.

The report, next to last of the commission's series of 18 on government reorganization, made no flat recommendation for laws to cure what it called the present "confusion, inconsistencies and uncertainty" in the handling of overseas responsibilities.

But it declared that, of three likely solutions, such an independent agency holds the "greatest possibilities" of ending confusion and "serious friction" among the offices now sharing the job—the Army, Navy, State and Interior departments and four independent agencies.

Former President Herbert Hoover, chairman of the 12-member, bipartisan commission, went further. He declared the agency should be set up immediately. Two other members shared his view—James E. Pollock, political scientist, and George H. Mead, Ohio industrialist.

See Study Needed
The rest of the commission thought more study is needed. Two members, Secretary of State Acheson and retiring Secretary of Defense Forrestal, took no position; their agencies are directly concerned.

The proposal might solve one major problem. The Army wants to get out of civil rule in occupied Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea.

Youth Marches On

PRE-MEDICAL student at New York University, Walter Greenfield, 19, is believed to be the youngest person invited to address the Society of American Bacteriologists at the annual meeting of the New York branch. He is scheduled to report on his original research on "Bacterium Violaceum," a group of organisms which produce a purple pigment. (International) rea: the State department doesn't want the job.

Meanwhile, the commission said, there have been "uncertainty and delay" on the State department's part in drafting policies for the areas, so that the Army has tended "through its daily decisions, to make its own policy."

If congress adopts the suggestion, the new administration would take over.

The occupied areas in Europe and the Far East, from the Army.

The European recovery program and presumably aid to China, from the year-old Economic Cooperation administration.

Special missions to Greece and Turkey, from the State department.

The "trust territories" of the Caroline, Marshall and Marianas islands, from the Navy.

The self-governing territories of Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, from the Interior department.

The non-self governing territories of Guam and Samoa, from the Navy.

The entire ECA and three lesser independent agencies—the Philippine War Damage commission, Philippine Alien Property administration and American Battle Monuments commission—would go into the new office intact.

LET'S EAT

Broiled Chicken, Barbecue Sauce

Ingredients: 1/2 cup salad oil, 1 clove garlic (peeled), 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons cider vinegar, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 medium-sized onion (grated), 1 bay leaf, 1/2 cup tomato catsup, 1/2 cup water, 1 large fryer (cut in pieces and cleaned).

Method: Put the salad oil, garlic salt, pepper, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, grated onion, bay leaf, tomato catsup and water in a saucepan and bring to a boil; allow to simmer for about 5 minutes. Arrange chicken pieces in a baking pan, skin side down. Pour sauce over chicken. Brown under low to medium heat for 45 minutes to 1 hour, basting frequently with sauce and turning to brown both sides of chicken. Remove garlic and bay leaf before serving. Five to six servings.

Method: Put the shortening (slightly cooled) in a mixing bowl and add the molasses and mix. Add the egg, raisins, rolled oats and walnut meats and stir together. Sift the flour, baking soda, cinnamon and salt together; add to first mixture with milk. Drop by heaping tablespoons, about 2 inches apart, onto a greased cookie sheet. Method: Add the gelatin to the boiling water, stirring until completely dissolved. Add vinegar and salt and mix well. Chill until gelatin is slightly congealed, then fold in the apple, celery and walnuts. Pour into individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold and serve on salad greens with a creamy salad dressing. 4 to 6 servings.

Chili Con Carne

Ingredients: 2 tablespoon fat, 1 small onion (chopped fine), 1 pound chopped beef, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 No. 2 can tomatoes, 1 No. 2 can kidney beans, chili powder and freshly-ground pepper (to taste).

Method: Melt the fat in a large skillet, add the onion and cook slowly until tender, stirring frequently. Add the beef and break up with a fork as it cooks until it loses its red color. Sprinkle with the salt and add the tomatoes; simmer until flavors are well combined. Add the kidney beans (including the liquid from can) and heat thoroughly, stirring several times. Portion of dish may be removed now for serving to children, then chili powder and freshly-ground pepper (to taste) added to the rest and simmered to develop flavor. 4 to 6 servings.

DIFFERENCES

IN RENT BILL

TO BE IRONED

House, Senate Begin Process of Coordinating Two Bills For Action

WASHINGTON, March 25—(AP)—Senate and house conferees tackle the job today of ironing out "house rule" and other differences between the separate rent bills passed by the two branches of congress.

Hanging over the conference group is the expiration of the present rent control law next Thursday, March 31.

The house bill would continue controls 15 months. The senate measure calls for a 12-to 15-month extension.

There are sharp differences.

The senate bill lets states, cities and towns junk federal rent curbs at any time, provided the governor approves. However, a state legislature could pass a decontrol measure over the governor's veto.

The house bill allows states, counties, cities and towns to remove controls, and it makes no provision for approval by the governor.

Here is another main difference: The house bill requires the federal housing expediter to fix rent ceilings at a level to guarantee landlords a "reasonable return on the reasonable value" of their property.

In lieu of that, the senate measure allows some rent increase up to 10 per cent in two steps. One five per cent increase could be put into effect Oct. 1, 1949. A second for the same amount could be charged April 1, 1950.

But in no case could the cumulative increase boost rents more than 15 per cent above the level of June 30, 1947, the base for figuring both hikes.

Extended 15 Months

The house bill extends rent controls a flat 15 months — through June 30, 1950, with no strings except the local option decontrol provision.

Keep After Book Angle In Cincy

CINCINNATI, March 25—(AP)—The state liquor department moved swiftly yesterday in its crackdown on alleged bootlegging operations in drinking spots here.

Several hours after Anthony A. Rutkowski, chief of the department's enforcement division, had given the word to crack down, six enforcement officers raided three cafes in the Cincinnati area.

Frank M. Acton, inspector in charge of the local enforcement division, said permit holders at each of the establishments would be cited to the board of liquor.

Acton said his men had raided the First Stop Inn and the Diamond cafe, both in Silverton, and the Pilot cafe in Norwood. At the first stop and pilot establishments the officers made bets on horse races, he reported, but at the Diamond cafe they had to force their way into an alleged bootlegging room.

Pay-off slips, record sheets and other handbook equipment were seized as evidence in all of the places, he said.

Other raids were scheduled, Acton said, "but word got around what we were doing and the bookies went underground." He declined to say what future action was planned.

Rutkowski's crackdown order came after Chairman Walter Mitchell of the board of liquor control had described Cincinnati as "the only city in Ohio in which bootleggers operate extensively in establishments with liquor permits."

Cites Civil Needs

CANTON, March 25—Political parties should interest young people in local politics, State Treasurer Don H. Elbright said in a speech last night.

He told the sixth annual banquet of the Stark County Auditor Employees association that the newly-formed institute of practical politics at Ohio Wesleyan university was a good example of meeting present day needs.

Fined For Slots

IRONTON, March 25—Fines of $200 and costs each were imposed yesterday on seven Lawrence counties indicted recently on charges involving operation of slot machines.

Vetoes Bill

NILES, March 25—Mayor Ray J. Hubbard has used his veto power for the first time since he took office in January, 1948. The measure, adopted by city council 4 to 2, would have authorized $1,500 to hire a job survey and classification for city employees. The mayor said the bill was "a joke."

SPRING BLOSSOMS IN DARKNESS

THEY CANNOT SEE the beauty of Spring's flowers, but these two blind children from New York's Lighthouse Nursery School enjoy the fragrance of tulips at the National Flower Show, Little Sidney Weinberger, 4, depends on the sense of touch to learn what a tulip petal might look like while his friend, Adelaide Wink, 5, decides that the fragrant flowers must be beautiful since they "smell so nice." Plaque To Mark Site Of Edison's Discovery

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—A Wyoming plaque soon will mark the spot where Thomas Edison, on a fishing trip, got the idea for a filament in the incandescent lamp.

Edison, the story goes, was camping at Battle Lake when he decided to try the fiber of his bamboo fishing pole as a filament. He found it was the answer to his problem when he returned to his laboratory in the east.

The Wyoming historical landmark commission decided to place the plaque on a boulder on the road between Encampment and Savery near the Continental Divide.

The National Wildlife Federation estimates that there are nearly six million big-game animals in the United States.

JANE WYMAN

Walter how he wanted him to act in "Treasure of the Sierra Madre" won two awards for that picture—one for the best direction of the year and another for the best screenplay.

It also marked the first time a father-and-son act has crashed the Hollywood night-of-nights together. It was Papa Huston's fourth try at an "Oscar" and he grabbed it gratefully.

Saved Him Spot

"I raised a son," he told the cheering spectators. "And I always told him: If you ever become a director or a writer, please find a part in your movie for your old man." Well, he did!"

Miss Trevor, beautiful and breathless in a strapless white taffeta gown, said it was the happiest moment of her life.

Producer Jerry Wald, who had to talk Warner brothers into letting him make "Johnny Belinda," walked off with the coveted Irving Thalberg award for "top achievement in production" during the year.

Adolph Zukor, one-time head of Paramount studios, won a special plaque for his 40-year-old record of service to the industry, and Producer Walter Wagner got a special award for his "outstanding production work" on "Joan of Arc."

Ivan Jandl, the little Czech boy who starred in "The Search," also won a special award as the "outstanding juvenile actor" although he had never done any acting before and hasn't since.

Master of Ceremonies Robert Montgomery herded the stars through their places with split-second timing and kept them hopping on and off the stage as fast as the "Oscars" could be handed out.

He also cut all long-winded speeches short in advance with:

"We take it for granted nobody did a job single-handed. But if you want to acknowledge your indebtedness to anybody, do it by letter or by phone tomorrow—collect, if necessary."

Frank Bray, Newsman, County Native Dead at 82

NEW YORK, March 25—Frank Chapin Bray, 82, author and newspaper and magazine editor, died yesterday.

After serving as a proofreader for the Hartford (Conn.) Courant in 1890, Bray in turn became city editor of the Middletown (Conn.) Herald and managing editor of the Erie (Pa.) Morning Dispatch.

Later he edited the "Topics of the Day" department for the old Library Digest, switched to Werner's magazine and then became editor of the Chautauquan, organ of the Chautauque (N.Y.) institution.

After 1914 he lived in New York City and was an associate editor of Current Opinion magazine. Five years later he became editorial secretary of the world's court league and editor of the League of Nations magazine.

Bray, a native of Ballwinville, Ohio, was the author of several books, including "Headlines in American History," published in 1937.

Approves Improvement

It's Nearing Spade And Spud Time; Start Planning

It's almost spade and spud time. My achin' back—Garden Time!

The National Garden Institute, which knows everything about gardening from cut worms to corn shocks, has issued a primer on how to go about the business of providing the family with table greens.

First, says the N.G.I., a man ought to have a blue-print before he kicks up a clod in his garden.

"Worry first about the hardy things like radishes, onions, lettuce, spinach and beets," the Institute said. "Later you can think about beans, corn, tomatoes and other tender crops."

Draw the plan on a piece of paper and take it with you to the garden. Saving the drawing. That's a little complicated and puts the amateur gardener in the file-cabinet business, but the N.G.I. says it'll pay a dividend next year in the amount of stuff you put in the deep freeze.

The Institute's recommendation for the size of the garden reminded me of the time he was secretary of agriculture and now is the Junior senator from New Mexico.

"I never have planted a garden," said he, "that was too big for my wife to handle."

Anyhow, the Institute says that a plot should be no bigger than you (or your family, including Mama) have time to take care of. About 1,500 square feet is a good size for a home vegetable garden. If you want to hoe a corn row, reap a few potatoes and the vine crops you'll need more room.

Spacing Important

And about spacing:

The Institute says when planting very small seeds like lettuce you ought to dump about 15 or 20 seeds to the inch. Seeds somewhat larger, like beets, you can plant about 12 to the foot. Peas, 8 to 12 to the foot and beans 4 to 8 to the foot.

There are other things the garden folks recommend. Like put-

NEW STAMP BOOK SYSTEM PROPOSED

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY

WASHINGTON, March 25—(AP)—A new "stamp book" taxpaying system was suggested today by the administration to help make possible a vast expansion of Social Security.

The stamp system is designed principally for farm workers and household help who would be among the 20,000,000 new workers blanketed under old age insurance if congress approves the expansion.

Arthur J. Altmeier, social security commissioner, projected the tax plan as he laid before the house ways and means committee the details of President Truman's program to:

- 1.—Increase the coverage of old age and survivors insurance from 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 workers;
- 2.—Boost the insurance benefits by about double;
- 3.—Create a new insurance program for disabled workers; and
- 4.—Reduce the "penalty age" for women from 65 to 60.

As part of the battle to prevent "destitution," Altmeier said, the insurance program should be expanded to include 6,000,000 farm operators; 7,000,000 urban self-employed (lawyers, doctors, businessmen, etc.); 3,000,000 domestic or household workers, and 4,700,000 hired farm workers.

Altmeier said a stamp book system would work this way:

"Under such a system each employee would receive a stamp book in which stamps would be placed by his employer to evidence contributions made by the employer and the worker."

"In rural areas the employer could purchase these stamps from the mail carrier, and in urban areas they could be purchased at post offices. A stamp plan could be used also by small industrial and commercial establishments which found it more convenient.

"For regular workers on large scale farms, where pay records are already kept, the system of reporting now used in industry might be most convenient."

"For the rest—that is, for the workers on small farms and the temporary help employed during rush seasons—it might be more convenient to use a stamp plan."

"Whenever he paid his workers, the farmer could place special social security insurance stamps in books carried by the workers. Half the cost of these stamps would be borne by the employee."

"The books should be accepted by the Social Security administration as evidence of earnings, and the farmer would not need to make any report or keep and special records for the purpose."

SAYS HE'LL TAKE POLICE JOB NO ONE WANTS NOW

EVARTS, Ky., March 25.—(UP)—World War Two veteran Howard P. Gibson, 41, Lexington, said today he has two 45's and "will get two more" if he is appointed police chief of this troubled coal mining town in the Kentucky mountains.

Gibson, who said he "ain't afraid of any man, living or dead," seems to be the favorite in the eyes of Mayor Elihu Bailey, who reported he already has received 142 applications for the job from every state in the union.

Evarts is the community which has used up five police chiefs since last August. John Barnes, Jr., who said he was a "very temporary" policeman, took charge of law and order for the time being while Inchar Combs, the fifth chief, reeled in jail.

The town started losing policemen Aug. 9, when Albert Smith quit after someone fired into his car. His successor, E. J. Baumgardner, was shot to death in September. H. T. Collier resigned in October to go back to driving a taxi-cab, which he said was safer.

George Sellers quit in November while in jail on a drunkenness charge. And Combs last week was sentenced to 10 years in prison for slaying Bryan Middleton, who was charged with killing Baumgardner.

The question of a new chief will be decided April 4 when the city council meets. The job pays $225 per month.

Mayor Bailey said "I like Gibson for the job," but he has made no decision yet.

Meanwhile, Gibson, who served overseas with Combs, said he wouldn't go into the job blindly. He said he has taken out a $10,000 life insurance policy, and bought his wife a house this week "so that if anything happens to me she'll be taken care of."

Gibson said if he gets the job the big question will be finding a suitable assistant. He said he has several persons in mind but that all are afraid of the job.

Gibson admitted he is taking a lot of kidding from folks who ask where he wants his body sent and what kind of flowers he likes.

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, was named for a river which does not exist. Spanish discoverers mistook the wide bay for the mouth of a river, which they called River of January, because they came upon it January 1.

If Alaska becomes the 49th state in the union, it will also be the largest.

SOVIET GERMAN NIGHT LIFE TURNS BACK CALENDAR TO U. S. PROHIBITION MEMORIES

BY TOM REEDY
LEIPZIG, Germany—(AP)—Anybody who can Charleston is an immediate hit in the night life of Soviet Germany.
The annual Leipzig fair uncorked a holiday atmosphere here, deep in the Russian zone, and turned back the calendar to the roaring 20s for U. S. visitors.
After 12 years of Hitler and almost four years of the Russians, the eastern German is about two decades out of date. Dancing in the night spots reminds one of the postage stamp floors, dubious booze and fancy prices of the prohibition era in the United States.
All the Germans dance the old-fashioned "toddle." And they all try to dance at once. You don't see any Russians in their night clubs, except a few in civilian clothing on secret police duty. The "no fraternization" ban of the Russian army isn't just talk.
What the girls do for evening clothes is the best they can. They improvise here, pin up there, and come out in a pathetically good way. The men don't make it so well. In one night club the only man with matching coat and pants turned out to be the Communist proprietor.
The beer is good and packs a wallop. The German cognac beats a lot of dubious fluid that poses under fancy names elsewhere. For twenty east marks, a German can have a time for himself. Of course, this is three days pay for him. An east mark in terms of dollar is hard to calculate but the nearest guess is about seven cents.
How American cigarettes work this deep into the Soviet zone is a caution, but many Germans are smoking them. Cigarettes are rationed but those on sale are either German or Bulgarian or something like that are not so good.
The waiters spot a "foreigner" immediately and he gets excellent service, for American cigarettes, of course.
One waiter in a little cabaret noised around as the best German night spot in Leipzig was a hard-bitten little man that no tuxedo would spoil. He spoke out of the side of his mouth the best New York accent this side of that well-known statue.

"I was born in the United States, in California," he started out. (Everybody here seems to have been born in the United States.)
"My wife was born in Texas," he went on. "But my old man was a German and he brought us back here. That was a tactical error."
"How are things in Leipzig?" we ask.
His face settles in a hollow, morrowful cast.
"Wonderful," he says in a tone reserved for waxes.
Down the street is a Soviet "intourist" place. There is caviar, vodka, first-class food of all kinds. The vodka is manufactured in Germany, in a factory near Plauen and can't be told from any distilled in Russia.
Currency Limited
In the intourist places, only dollar-bought "valuta marks" are accepted from foreigners. The Russians use east marks. The orchestra is bigger and brassier than in the little German night club, but it plays the same vintage tunes. Most are American songs of 20 years ago.
The conductor is an old codger in tails. He used to be first violin in the Leipzig symphony orchestra but the pay is better with a jazz band.
Germans get hold of "valuta marks" somehow and wander in and out of the intourist places.
Everywhere there are three women to one man. It's "dutch treat"—everyone pays their own way, including the women.
By midnight, the spots are at their zenith of noise. Closing time is 2:30 a. m.
Everybody piles into taxis which are inexpensive. But a mark is a mark, so six or seven get into one built for four. Those who have spent their last mark wander arm in arm down the streets, singing.

Flashes Of Life

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 25—Five professors and instructors who flunked a campus-wide student popularity poll may be fired and 42 who won "A" ratings may receive raises. University of Michigan authorities said today.
The university passed out 50,000 questionnaires three months ago to students in the College of Literature, Science and Arts asking that they rate their professors on 10 points.
About 11,000 students answered in the survey, flunking five of their teachers and giving superior ratings to 42 out of the 410 professors and instructors in the college.
The results compared so favorably with what department heads think of their instructors that a similar survey will be conducted annually for the next five years as a partial basis for granting faculty pay increases and promotions, according to Lloyd S. Woodburne, assistant dean of the college.
CLEVELAND—Shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Conrad E. Hoehn were married, back in 1894, they rented a house on Colfax road.
Yesterday they received an eviction notice. The house has been sold and the new owner wants possession.
Hoehn, 77, was a foundry worker and inspector until he retired last year.
He said he and his wife would do no house-hunting. They are going to move in with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Wiley, in Russell township, Geauga county.
AKRON—A husband is seeking a divorce here because of his wife's religious activities.
Gerald M. Fluke filed a petition against his wife, Naomi, and asked custody of their five children, ages two to 12.
For several years, he said, Mrs. Fluke attended religious services of "a highly emotional type, and for a long period attended such services four nights a week and Sunday afternoons."

The services, he claimed, "left her in a highly nervous state so she could not attend to her household duties and prevented her from properly taking care of the children."

Counting Fish's Scales Tells How Old It Is

MAYWOOD, Ill.—Fishermen are generally content to know how much a fish weighs, but scientists of the American Can Company laboratories here now can tell how old a fish is by counting its scales.
By examining a salmon's scales under a microscope, the scientists can determine its age like counting rings on tree trunks. Finding out how old salmon are, and how long they have been in fresh or salt water is part of the procedure in testing the quality of each year's salmon pack.

City of Leesburg Plans Colonial Restoration

LEESBURG, Va.—This historic city, once the temporary capital of the United States, plans to recapture some of its past glory by restoring its appearance as it was in colonial times.
Charles W. Snyder, head of the project, said the corporation would employ architects to make drawings and models of the town as it was in the 18th century. The drawings and plans will be made available to property owners planning to remodel.
In 1814, President James Madison and his cabinet took refuge here while the British were burning Washington.
Another Virginia city, Williamsburg, has nearly completed restoration to its appearance in colonial times.

Leetonia Banquet Planned For Team

LEETONIA, March 25—The annual basketball banquet sponsored by the Student council will be held at the high school building Saturday evening. The Home Economics class under the direction of Mrs. C. A. Weidman, home economics teacher, will serve the dinner at 8:30 for members of the squad, reserves, cheerleaders, timekeepers, scorers and Coaches Harold Morrow and Andrew Musick.
Dr. A. B. Kitzmiller, professor of psychology at Mt. Union college, Alliance, will be guest speaker. Dr. Kitzmiller is an outstanding speaker, noted for his "pep" talks at the college.
The Junior High boys under the direction of Coach Mruzik won three games in the Little B tournament. William Belling and Richard Gibson were selected on the all tournament team. Fred Culler won the foul shooting contest.
The Crescent office girls of the Rockwell Manufacturing Co. held their monthly meeting at the "Stables" Tuesday evening with Miss Florence Cushing and Mrs. Wilbur Calladine as hostesses.

Western Canada To Try Cotton Growing

MEDICINE HAT, Alta.—Cotton can be grown successfully in Canada for commercial use, Alderman Simon F. Scott contends.
Scott said cotton can be grown in this area. He pointed out that within a radius of 50 miles of Medicine Hat there are 15 to 25 more days of growing weather than in any other part of Canada.
One hundred pounds of Texas cotton-seed will be made available to farmers as soon as warm weather prevails, Scott said.
Scott promoted the idea of growing cotton in this area after a trip to the United States and Mexico. He claims conditions here are similar to those he saw in Mexico.

Your Last 40 Years Depend On Age Signs

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK, March 25—(AP)—
For more than half of you who read this, the second 40 years of life has begun.

You may be in your prime, or past it, but either way, what you are in the latter second 40's will depend on how you read certain signs.

Seven of these are described by Dr. Edward J. Stieglitz of Washington, New York and Bethesda and Rockville, Md., in a report to the Smith, Kline and French laboratories conference on aging.

The first sign is reaction time. When you are injured, whether by germs or autos, your body reacts less readily and less vigorously. Possibly nothing much appears to be wrong. Doctors have to look for minor changes to find the trouble. You may have pneumonia with fever yet be walking around. You may have appendicitis without pain. You may wait too long before consulting a doctor.

Repairs Slowly
Second sign: The body repairs itself more slowly. Consequences are likely to be prolonged. If you don't submit to this lengthened rest, some acute disease from which you could completely recover, may do irreparable damage.

Third sign: From ages 8 to 80, temperature, pulse rate, sugar, protein, calcium and chloride in the blood are about the same. But after 40 there is a drop in the body's ability to maintain this constancy. So you lose some of your ability "to take it." Especially does this apply to heat, cold, dehydration, starvation and too much sweets and other things. Dehydration, loss of water for any reason, makes both the very aged and the very young very ill.

Fourth sign: Weight. It becomes more important to get your weight to the right level. Also watch your hemoglobin, which is the red color of your blood, and the proper balance of proteins and sugars.

Fifth sign: There is a change in the effects of some of the drugs you may take. Barbiturates, the common sleeping pills, are likely to confuse and excite the aged, to cause forgetfulness, unsteadiness and fears. On the other hand, ability to stand opium and alcohol may increase. Dr. Stieglitz says that alcohol in moderation is extremely useful in management of the aged.

Sixth sign: Don't insist upon abrupt changes in habits. These are the habits of thinking, eating, smoking, sleeping, exercise and alcohol. Modify these habits slowly and gradually.

Seventh sign: Chronic illness progresses more slowly in its inroads. This, says Dr. Stieglitz, is the one item on the credit side of the ledger. Most of these signs have something to do with chronic illnesses. The chronic diseases kill 60 per cent of all people, both young and old. They rise sharply after 40.

Two Big Industries Moving To Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 25—(AP)—
Two big industrial plants, each to cost more than $15,000,000, are coming to Cleveland, Mayor Thomas A. Burke said today.

One is a new steel plant and the other a special metal plant whose product is demanded by jet-propelled aircraft. The mayor told Cleveland business leaders at the annual meeting of the Cleveland convention and visitors' bureau.

Mayor Buke said he was not yet privileged to identify the companies.

The mayor also declared it was his "guess" the Reconstruction Finance Corp. in a few days would approve the city's application for a $27,000,000 rapid transit loan.

Accidents to farmers cause enough lost time in a year to produce more than half the average annual wheat crop in the United States.

Dr. Parran Proposes Pure Air Campaign

PITTSBURGH — Dr. Thomas Parran, director of the University of Pittsburgh's new $13,000,000 graduate school of public health, wants the air we breathe to be as safe and pure as the water we drink.

The former U. S. surgeon general said the fight to clean up air "has hardly begun." He admits the ambitious job will be long and difficult but not insurmountable.

He pointed out in an address before the Allegheny County Medical Society that the struggle to purify water and milk was won over tremendous odds. And, he said, it still required "eternal vigilance to maintain them at top level."

Parran, the man who shattered taboos against the words syphilis and gonorrhea in public, believes the battle is "almost won." Tuberculosis, he said, still is the most stubborn born to conquer and venereal disease the most deep-rooted.

He urged, however, a stepped-up attack against mental ailments and diseases of old age. Those, he said, were responsible for "the heaviest demands upon private charity and public taxes."

The U. S. Government Printing Office was established in 1861.

Big Leaguers Of Class A Swing Into Tournament Action

Lockland Wayne, Delphos St. John Rack Up Easy Wins To Set B Finals

BY FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, March 25—(AP)—The big leaguers of Class A move in today in Ohio's high school basketball tournament.

Lockland Wayne's all-Negro quintet and Delphos St. John's parochial crew reached the Class B title round with a couple of sizzling victories in yesterday's semi-finals, assuring a colorful clash for the crown Saturday afternoon.

Today's schedule calls for Hamilton Public (23-1) and Niles (13-0) to trade shots at 2:30 p. m., and Toledo Central Catholic (25-3) and Akron St. Vincent (17-5) to meet at 8 p. m. The winners collide Saturday night for the big title.

All four Class A contenders are bringing big delegations of fans for the crucial contests, but they'll show no more enthusiasm than the shrill-voiced thousands who cheered on the Class B contingent.

Delphos St. John, tall and rugged but not too fast, squelched New Lexington's hopes with a pressing defense and some shershotting from the floor. The 53-37 setback, in which the Catholic contenders led all the way, was only the second in 28 games for the Perry countians. The victory was the 28th in 31 games for Delphos.

Lockland Wayne, displaying poise and power and unanny bursts of speed, looked like one of the finest Class B teams ever in the tourney as it overcame an early deficit and defense kept New Lexington from getting over the center line in 10 seconds, and each time the Catholic boys moved in for a two-point.

Yesterday's two sessions drew 11,331 customers—5629 in the afternoon and 5602 at night—but today's pair of Class A contests are due to draw near a 15,000 total and put last year's record of 38,000-odd in jeopardy.

Two side attractions took the eye of the fans last night. One was the sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct of the Lockland Wayne club, the other the fancy stepping and rhythm of the Panthers' five co-ed cheer leaders.

Before the game the Panthers knelt before their bench and recited the entire Lord's Prayer, then took the court to put on one of the most clean-cut exhibitions in tournament history. And in contrast to the dead-pan seriousness of the other teams, the Lockland lads looked as if they were just having fun. Nothing like them has been seen on the historic coliseum floor since the Waterloo Wonders captured the hearts of the fans, and two straight Class 'B' Championships, back in 1934 and 1935.

8-A BASKETBALL TEAM WINS 38-23 FOR SCHOOL TITLE

8-A reigned today as champions of Junior High school in basketball, but the title-holders were plenty worried about it before they managed to defeat 7-E 38-23 at the Memorial building Thursday afternoon.

The champions led 4-3 at the end of the first quarter, but trailed 13-10 at halftime. They rebounded to go ahead in the third and kept away for the balance of the contest.

Mellinger's 14 points paced the victors while Boone led the younger lads with 12 points.

Training Camp Bits, Info

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 25—(AP)—The "latest" trade rumor in the camp of the New York Giants has Howie Pollet, stylish St. Louis Cardinal left-hander, on the way to the Polo grounds.

Pollet would be a welcome addition to Leo Crocher's crew for two reasons, he can pitch and he has been one of the Card's most effective hurlers against the home run hitting giants. Outfielder Bobby Thomson is the Giant player involved in the supposed Pollet deal.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The hitting streak of George Stirmweiss, New York Yankee second baseman, was halted at eight games yesterday.

Stirmweiss failed to get the ball out of the infield in four trips to the plate in the Yanks' 5-0 loss to the Detroit Tigers. The Yanks have managed to score only one run in 30 innings against the Tigers and that marker was unearned.

VERO BEACH, Fla.—Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds and Hank Deberry, New York Giant scout are watching the Brooklyn Dodgers go through the paces. The two hope to land some of Brooklyn's surplus talent but both remained mum on possible deals.

All Giles would say was, "I thought I might get one of Branch's (Branch Rickey, Dodger president) mechanical pitchers for my club."

SAN FRANCISCO—Manager Lou Boudreau's intermittent appearances in the Cleveland Indians' lineup have netted him a .571 batting average.

Boudreau has hit 12 times in 21 tries. Yesterday he got a double and two homers in five attempts as the Tribe whipped the Chicago Cubs 7 to 4 in Los Angeles. It was Lou at that plate that put the Tribe back into the winning column after four straight losses by one-run margins.

The manager's double drove in the Indians' first run in the fourth inning, after Mickey Vernon had singled.

Satchel Paige had hurled the first three innings in his first start of the year. He retired the first six men to face him and allowed only a single in the third.

BRADENTON, Fla.—Cincinnati fans may see a pair of Texas league graduates holding down the right side of the Redleg infield, come opening day, April 19.

Manager Bucky Walters indicated today Second Sacker Johnny Lane and First Baseman Charley Kress, both Tulsa regulars in 1948, would be his starters.

Both fancy Dans afield, Lane and Kress have been turning in such outstanding hitting performances during the current exhibition series that they appear to be far ahead of last year's regulars, Second Baseman Benny Zientara and Bobby Adams and First Sacker Ted Klusowski.

Kress lined out two doubles yesterday and crossed the plate twice as the Red defeated the Washington Senators 6-4 for their eighth victory in 12 Grapefruit league outings.

Red Lively, the outstanding pitcher of the Reds' spring campaign, worked the first six innings and allowed just three hits.

BARONS EKE OUT VICTORY TO STAY IN TITLE CHASE

Score Tied Four Times In Stiff Battle, Second of Playoff Run

(By International News Service)
One down and three more playoff series to go before the American Hockey league's 1949 Calder cup champions are chosen.

That's the way the standings read today after the Hershey Bears scratched out a 4-3 win over Indianapolis last night and eliminated the Caps from the second-place playoffs.

The Cleveland Barons also won a "big" one last night, but it took them into the first overtime game in three years at Cleveland before they eked out a close 6-5 victory over Springfield. The series stands at one win apiece with the final contest slated for tomorrow night in Cleveland.

Four times the score was tied in the Barons-Indians clash. The lead saw-sawed back and forth several times before Winger Frank Porteous slammed home a rebound off Goalie Phil McAttee's chest in the 10-minute overtime period to keep the hockey season alive in Cleveland.

The powerful Providence Reds whitewashed the St. Louis Flyers 2-0 last night in the first place playoffs battle. The Rhode Islanders now own a double win over St. Louis in their best-of-seven rivalry.

For the second game in a row, the Detroit-Montreal Stanley cup series went into overtime play, but the Montreal Canadians won this one, 4-3. Detroit and Montreal are even at one win apiece in their best-of-seven series for the National league's championship.

Toronto's 3-2 victory over Boston was their second straight win in the second place playoffs eliminations.

Finnigan, Dillard And Springer Score Hits As Boosters Fete Track Team

Track was given a rousing send-off for the 1949 season Thursday evening when W. J. Springer, former Salem High coach and principal, Coach Eddie Finnigan of Baldwin-Wallace college and Harrison Dillard, U. S. Olympic champion, spoke to members of the squad and Boosters club at the Memorial building.

Approximately 60 track youngsters and about 60 Boosters and guests attended the track pre-season session, an innovation in Booster activity.

All three speakers struck a cord of enjoyment with the attending track enthusiasts and the evening was capped with a fine selection of films of B-W's Dillard in action on the cinderpath.

Dillard, who holds or shares 11 world's records, outlined the history of the Olympic games and told of the experiences and travels of the 1948 U. S. team.

He avoided telling of his own feats in the games and dwelt largely with the activities of the U. S. team overseas last year.

Springer, a former track, basketball and football coach here before becoming principal of the High school in 1929, told the Salem squad of the feats of leading track stars in Salem.

Springer, now superintendent of Bay Village schools, said he felt the 1931 Salem track team, which Floyd Stone coached, was the finest team he remembers here.

The team placed second in the Ohio state meet, losing out to Lakewood by 4/10 of a point. He also retraced the feats of Lowell "Rib" Allen, famous Salem High pole vaulter, who was the first High school athlete ever to vault over 13 feet.

Recalling the bitterness of the Columbiana county track meet, the ex-Salem coach told the story of the 1904 meet, when other county schools ganged up on Salem to avoid having the Quakers win the meet the third straight season.

In the resulting confusion the county meet cup was stolen and disappeared for many years. It was recovered, some 21 years later, when the Farmers National bank was re-opened.

Springer lauded Fred Cope, a former track star under him here in 1925. He credits Cope with being "one of the easiest men I ever had to coach."

Cope, faculty manager, introduced Springer and Troy Penner, a B-W graduate and track letterman, introduced Finnigan, his former coach. Fritz Bichsel was in charge of the session.

Finnigan, an interesting, humorous speaker who seemed to enjoy his role of the dyed-in-the-wool Irishman, described Dillard's career at Baldwin-Wallace.

He traced the former East Tech flash's progress through the Olympic games. Finnigan said he wanted Dillard because he had "the fastest pair of legs I've ever seen in High school track."

With considerable pride, he told of Dillard's first national championship and the work leading up to it.

He said he knew he had the world's fastest hurdler last summer. But when Dillard hit four hurdles in the Olympic trials and was eliminated from his own event "he proved he was the finest citizen ever produced in track."

Stay Close To Top
DURHAM, N. H.—In 25 years of competition, New Hampshire winter sports teams have never finished worse than fourth in any collegiate ski meet.

Fifteen years must elapse after a horse's death before its name can be reused.

Boyle's COLUMN

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP) — The poor man's philosopher says: Life, for every man, has three grindstones.

They chafe him more as he grows older, less sure of himself and less innocent. They rub him deeper as he turns to the patterns of an unhappy past to guide him toward what he hopes is a fairer future.

The three grindstones of life, common to all men, are those of duty, doubt and desire.

A man's growing sense of responsibility as he takes over the duties of maturity.

He knows, if he is a rug salesman, that he can't make a down payment on his boy's college education—the boy who is never to suffer as he did—unless he can sell an off-color green carpet to a lady who wanted an off-blue color, but who isn't quite sure what that is.)

2.—THE SECOND grindstone is his developing feeling, as he ages, of a sense of physical insufficiency to deal with the problems his new position requires.

(All his life he wanted to be promoted to a certain job. Now that he has it he is uncertain and doesn't know what to do with it. He is tired. The boss he complained about is no longer there. He is on top and has nobody to blame but himself. He feels the fresher, younger man under him is trying to get his job. And he doubts in his heart whether he has the courage, strength or brains to whip his competition. There is fear in his falling heart.)

3.—The third grindstone is man's inextinguishable desire to kick up his heels at any age in any climate and have fun.

(Self-pleasure becomes an oppressive duty to men who are victims of the first two grindstones of life. They think that only by becoming roosters again can they get rid of the first two grindstones around their necks.)

But there are always people a man knows who are watching to see that he wears the three grindstones politely in public. He feels they are men who want to take his place, men who want the prestige of position but who have no idea of the behind-the-throat scars with which the grindstones of life will mark them forever.

A MAN MAY twist, dodge, turn and evade as he will. But if he is an aspiring man he can't dislodge those grindstones he's tied to.

They are the penalty of leadership in our generation and our civilization (western). And if few men in our era really seek to be leaders, it is because they can't take on masse these grindstones all men face separately.

So few can reconcile themselves to being responsible, face the inner uncertainty and hesitations that age brings, and curb their animal yearning to let go and be free—escape the human curb.

These are the three grindstones that wear the mid-Twentieth century man into a human rubble of frustration.

Perhaps our history yet may be recorded only by a hopeful blind man writing with a pencil without lead.

If homemade doughnuts are greasy after they have been deep-fat fried, the chances are that the fat in which they were cooked was not hot enough.

Now Teach Students How To Study Faster

CHICAGO — A course which teaches students how to study has been started at the Illinois Institute of Technology.

The two-hour non-credit course emphasizes skilled reading and increased vocabulary. Economical and effective study methods for each regular course (English, chemistry, etc.) also are discussed.

"Many college instructors mistakenly believe that their students are reasonably good readers, while actually few read more than 250 to 400 words per minute," John Smale, student counselor at the institute who teaches the course, said.

One student almost tripped his reading rate, Smale said. He increased from 168 to 450 words a minute.

Promise Better Rural Service

COLUMBUS, March 25—(AP)—Rural telephone service is going to be better before long, the house commerce and transportation committee heard last night.

Representatives of small phone firms told the committee they could get equipment and make the changes demanded by subscribers before 1952.

The committee is considering a bill to require such companies to provide adequate service by Jan. 1, 1952. Such service includes no more than eight telephones on one "party line."

The phone measure by Rep. Robert W. Reeder (D-Ottawa) originally called for five phones on a party line. The limit was changed to six and now it stands at eight.

William Ebbott, representing the Russell Township men's civic club of Geauga county, said 14 phones were on his party line.

Committee members expressed belief the measure will be recommended for passage next week. About 40 counties were represented at the hearing.

Thomas Maxson of Columbus, former secretary of the Ohio Public Utilities commission, said the phone companies could and should improve service.

"Over half the complaints filed with the public utilities commission of Ohio within the past two years will be eliminated if this bill is made a law," Maxson asserted.

He said the alternative probably would be federally-financed cooperative phone companies serving rural areas in the state. The rural electrification administration would be authorized to finance projects in a bill pending in congress.
